BRIEF MENTION.

The Free Ferry was bought on Monday by Mr. J. S. Fowler for $75. Seven inches of rain fell on Saturday

Mrs. A. L. Bonner, wife of Rev. J. I. Bonner, D. D., of Due West, died at that place on Tuesday morning, 30th of March, after a long and painful illness from consumption. She was a most excellent lady and was dearly loved by a host of friends, who commingle their tears with those of her bereaved husband and other relatives.

The rain storm of last Saturday night was one of the most remarkable we have ever seen. The glare of lightning was almost continuous from dark to day light. The rain of Sunday morning was extremely heavy, and did great damage by washing land. It was also accompanied by small hail, which, however, did very little dam-

Mr. Robinson, in cleaning out the fire of the engine, dropped sparks among trash which surrounded the engine house, and it ignited. The cause of the fire was, therefore, accidental. Mr. Robinson's loss is twelve hundred dollars or more.

Several sections of the County were visited by another rain storm, accompanied by more or less of hail, on Tuesday afternoon. In the neighborhood of Mountain Creek Church many of the stones were as large as guinea eggs, but as the fall of hail was comparatively light no damage was done beyond the bruising of the young fruit trees and killing a few fowls. We learn that some of our Belton friends complain that Dr. Brown's communication in reference to the Atlantic and French Broad Railroad was not published in the INTELLIGENCER the week before it appeared. Mr. James S. Russell, of the Corner township, died at his residence in this County on the 6th inst., after an illness of several months from a complication of diseases. Mr. Russell was a good citizen, and his death is regretted by many relatives and friends. The Oconee Republicans held their County Convention last week and elected two delegates to the State Convention, one of whom was M. H. Bryce, a brother of Alex. Bryce, the man who was murdered in Oconee last August, the other delegate being a negro. The Convention passed a series of resolutions, the general sentiment of which partake strongly of the old Radical flavor. They want Grant nominated for President, and think it advisable for the Republicans of this State to put a full ticket in the field, and make a square fight against Messrs. G. F. Tolly and H. G. Scudday represented the Young Men's Christian Association of Anderson in the State Convention at Orangeburg last week. They say the meeting was very well attended, and that much good to the order in this State will likely result from it. The meeting was attended by some of the most eminent ministers of the gospel in the State, whose presence and counsel added a great deal to the interest of the occasion. Mr. T. W. Stanland, of Charleston, was elected President of the Convention, which commences the usually favorable circumstances.

The heavy rains on Saturday and Sunday nights made the ground too wet to plough on Monday, and it seemed that everybody had business in town, and from early in the morning until late in the afternoon the square was crowded with vehicles of every description. The merchants and their clerks were kept busy waiting on their numerous customers, and from all appearances did an unusually large business. "Mountain Dew" was freely imbibed, but the police found little trouble in keeping order, and everything passed off quietly. This is the way we like to see it. If men will drink ardent spirits, let them act like they had respect for themselves, as well for other people and the community at large.

A gentleman of this town, who was at Seneca City on Sunday last, and who has character for veracity, says that it rained down frogs in abundance at that place on that morning. As an evidence that they came from the clouds, he states that they were seen to fall into a house through a broken window pane, and that a sprinkling pot that was filled with rain water had several frogs in it. Considering the size of the opening in a sprinkling pot, they certainly must have come thick and fast in order for several to have gotten into a single vessel of that kind. Should this shower of hopping animals turn out to be of the green species, and our friends of Oconce make up their minds to make the use of them that is made in some sections, the demand for fryingsized chickens in that locality will not be very great this season, and the Counties adjoining will thereby reap some of the benefits of this most wonderful shower of living animals, as it will compel those of that County who have chickens for sale to seek a market elsewhere. We desire to put in Anderson's claim at once for her quota of the surplus frying-sized chickens.

The Other Side. Our contemporary, the Press and Banner, was not without authority for its statements in reference to the Anderson cotton market, although the authority has not proven to be very accurate. The following letter appeared in the Press and Banner of last week, and, as we want to act fairly in the matter, we reproduce it: DONNALDSVILLE, S. C., March 29. Editors Press and Banner :

Your informant was not badly mistaken as to the McGees in the Anderson cotton market. As for myself I was not there, and only sent one bale of cotton. I do not think I realized more than I could have got at Donaldsville, if as much.

As to A. H. McGee, he was not satisfied with his sale. J. S. McGee expressed himself to me as not liking the Anderson cotton market. He threatened to bring some of his cotton back before he could get what he thought it was worth. These are fact. he thought it was worth. These are facts that cannot be denied.

be denied.

Respectfully yours,

W. P. McGee. We regret that Mr. W. P. McGee does not favor us with the quotations for this point and for Donnaldsville in the day he sold. Perhaps he expected a greater bonanza than was reasonable in the Anderson market. At any rate, his cotton must have been inthe same price he made money by sending his cotton here, for the other gentlemen say

McGee proves very little.

The Directors of the Savannah Valley Railroad are to meet at Anderson Court tion we have had of the fact. The fault is House on next Wednesday, at 11 o'clock not at this office. The package is mailed a. m., for the purpose of considering matters of importance connected with that enterprise. One of the most important questions to come before them is the propriety of collecting or postponing the collection of the taxes voted to the Railroad in the town of Anderson and townships of this and Abbeville Counties. Upon the determination of this question much of the success of the enterprise will depend, and and it should be made to depend upon the fact as to whether the amount voted is sufficient to grade the road. If it is, then the tax ought to be collected. If it is not, it should not be collected until the necessary sum is subscribed, for it will do no good to expend fifty thousand dollars without practically finishing the grading.

This question should be decided by a survey of the road, and we think the Directors will act wisely by postponing the decision of the question to August, which will be soon enough for the fall collection, and in he has opened a first-class hotel. He is the meantime securing a thorough survey. We are confident the necessary funds for prietor for several years past of the Vir- this can be raised by private subscription, ginia House in Columbia, and will doubt- and in August the Directors can act intelligently on the question. If this course is not pursued, then the Directors ought to refer the question of immediate collection to the stockholders. This would let the people of each township send delegates to represent them, and all would be governed by the majority of the townships along the These remarks are made by us with a view of calling the attention of the Directors to the subject. The Road is a very important one to this place and to the section through which it runs, and we are anxious that no false step be taken in connection with it. It may be a little vexatious to some of the friends of the Road to see work on it delayed, but we had better delay than to begin before we are ready. If the amount subscribed is not sufficient to grade the Road we can raise the additional amount if we do it before collecting the tax already voted, but the people have been told the tax voted will grade the Road, and if it is collected and fails it will arouse a prejudice and hostility to it that may be hard to overcome. They ought to be told the exact facts before their money is collected. We must have the Road through whether of this subject.

Farmers' Alliance.

A meeting was held in the Court House on last Monday for the purpose of forming Farmers' Alliance for the County of Anderson. The attendance was small, but the undertaking was given a beginning, and we trust will develop into a useful and improving association. Col. J. W, Norris, on taking the chair, made a practical and interesting address, after which Maj. T. B. Lee was elected Secretary, and addresses were made by Col. E. M. Rucker, Hon. B. F. Crayton, Maj. Lee, Mr. E. B. Murray, Capt. M. B. Williams and Dr. T. J. Cook. On motion of Capt. Williams, each township was respected to form a purilliary alliance, and quested to form an auxilliary alliance, and send three delegates to the County Alliance at an adjourned meeting, to be fixed by the at an adjourned meeting, to be fixed by the President. The Secretary was instructed to prepare and publish a preamble setting forth the object of the Alliance, and append Capt. William's resolution, and publish the same for the benefit of the Alliance. Ay request of the meeting, Mr. W. W. Keys read the following essay from Col. T. H. Russell, which the meeting requested published in the Anderson papers, and, after attending to other business, adjourned.

COL. RUSSELL'S ESSAY. Fellow-Citizens: Over twelve months ago the farmers of Anderson County were con-vened in mass meeting for the purpose of co-operation in a united effort to resist what was conceived to be an attempted monopoly or extortion, in advancing the price of gu-anos at a time when farmers were least able to afford. Enough was achieved by that effort to convince any one that the farmers are abundantly able to protect themselves against all monopolies, if only they can be united in co-operative effort. Other meetings have since been held, but the attendance has fallen off until scarcely a cornoral's ance has fallen off until scarcely a corporal's guard can be found willing to meet together in consultation for the farmers' good. Some who were very forward in the first movement have never since condescended to honor the meetings with their presence. On the other hand, others who took but little interest at first are manifesting considerable zeal now, and this has encouraged us to hold another farmers' meeting, on this, the first of April, the beginning of another crop season, and a subject assigned for dis-cussion, to wit, "The advantages of the Piedmont belt of country for immigration and permanent settlement," and to your humble servant was appointed the duty of opening the subject by a lecture or essay. While we would have desired that a more While we would have desired that a more competent person had been chosen for this important duty, yet no subject could have been assigned of a more agreeable character to him who addresses you.

On this soil we were born, and here we have lived for a half century of our existence, and experience and observation have convinced us that no better earthly heritage was ever conferred upon mortal man than this of ours. In whatsoever aspect we have fallen behind other sections is not ascribable so much to the natural defects of soil or climate as to our crude and improvident modes of cultivation.

Lying on a parallel of latitude between 34 and 35 degress, we have a climate unsurpassed for salubrity and uniformity of temperature. Our average annual summer heat hardly ever reach much above 80°, and the winter cold seldom goes below 20°.—

Living as we do beneath the shadow of the Blue Ridge, our fevered brows in summer are fanned by the mountain zephyrs. A case of yellow fever has never perhaps been case of yellow fever has never perhaps been known among us, and cholers never visits us. Pneumonia and typhoid fever are more common, but taken in time they are easily controlled and seldom prove fatal. On the score of health, therefore, the first consideration of ration with the immigrant, no portion of the State offers so great inducements as the Piedmont belt of counties. Our colleges and higher schools of learning are gradually being located in this favored region, hence our educational advantages will soon be very superior. Perhaps, and justly so, the first question with the average immigrant is, What are the religious advantages to be enjoyed by a proposed removal and settle-ment? In this regard we shall speak more particularly of our own County. The religious influences pervading our community are very powerful and commanding. All the leading denominations of Christians are represented, and scarcely a neighborhood can be found in our bounds without its house of worship.

Crime is sensibly on the decrease, and the worthy immigrant, whether from the North, South, East or West, is always welcome. Situated on a parallel of latitude between 34 and 35 degrees, there is no portion of our wide national domain that offers such great inducements to the Northern or Eastern mmigrant as the Piedmont belt of the Carolinas and Georgia. The abundance of timber and water, the temperature of the climate, the capabilises of our soil, all conspire to make ours a desirable home for the immigrant from the Middle States of New York, Pennsylvania, Virginia and Maryland, or the New England States.

Our soil and climate are well adapted to the cultivation of clover and the grasses, and these in their wake bring improved stock, with plenty of manure to recuperate exhausted fields. Cotton and rice grow anywhere south of the Blue Ridge—the one clothes the world and the other feeds a large portion of it. Fruits and vegetables of almost every kind can be raised in our of almost every kind can be raised in our midst. The peach and the apple find their natural home on the slopes of our hills, and the fig and pomgranate, with a little artificial winter protection, will always yield a variety of tropical fruits for the use of our families.

We have an abundance of water power ferior to that of the other gentlemen, or he would have got the same price. If he got the same price he made money by sending the same price he made money by sending when the manufacturer and producer of the raw material will be near neighbors and The Baptist pulpit at this place was supplied on last Sunday morning and evening by Rev. J. L. Vass, of Spartanburg, one of the ablest Baptist ministers in South Caro-and is fast obliterating all sectional lines The Blue Ridge, after its long rest at the base of the mountains, has lately been awakened to new life, with very flattering prospects of its early completion across the mountains to Knoxville, thus bringing the State with her seaport towns in direct rail-road connection with the great network of western roads converging towards Knox-ville. Nearer the centre of the State runs the Spartanburg & Asheville Road, nearly completed to the latter point, with an equally strong probability of an early completion of the missing link from Asheville to Wolf Creek, thus again completing still another important link in the great Western connections with our seaport towns. And still another line, midway between the two, which, according to a recent survey, affords the most practicable crossing of the mountains yet discovered south of Pennsylvania, making Asheville its Western termini, with a direct connection with the great lines of road traversing our State east and west, north and south, and running through the Keowee road, and we hope the Commis-French Broad Valley from its head to its foot, with the richest soil for grains and grasses, and her hills affording a great variety of minerals, especially lime and iron in ety of minerals, especially lime and iron in great abundance, with some outcroppings of coal. All these lines of roads proposing Western connections should receive the hearty support of every well-wisher of his State and her seaport towns. No petty jealousies should be allowed to hinder the great work of an early completion of all these lines of roads, but every one should do what he could to bring about this desirable consummation. ble consummation.

So, to sum up the whole matter, in reviewing the advantages of the Piedmont when they want good bargains to come to region of country for permanent settlement, whether we look to health and religious influences, the first and highest considera-tion, along with educational facilities, or to her material prospects in manufacturing and agricultural development, we shall see that agricultural development, we shall be that she is not to be surpassed by any other.

- While we say this generally of the whole Piedmont belt of country, perhaps we shall be pardoned if we speak more particularly of the advantages afforded by our own County to the worthy emigrant for permanent settlement.

County to the worthy emigrant for permanent settlement.

Anderson County possesses advantages equal to any other of the Piedmont belt. Her soil is of every character from the rich alluvial bottom to the sandy loam on our ridges. Between these two extremes we find the heavy clay soils along our creeks and branches, peculiarly adapted to the production of grains and grasses. The light mulatto soils of the poorer uplands, although not so well adapted to the growth of grains and grasses as the heavier clays, of grains and grasses as the heavier clays, is better adapted to the cultivation of cotton, the smaller fruits and vegetables. And the poorer ridges are almost exclusively devoted to cotton and the small grains. The sweet potato finds a congenial home on all these lighter soils, and can be successfully sweet potato ands a congenial nome on all these lighter soils, and can be successfully grown any where in our County. The cow pea, the luscious watermelon, the chufa, the pinder, all yield bountifully to proper culture. The Irish potato and the cabbage, for an early and late crop, succeed admirably. So with the onion and the usual variety of carden specificals. It is believed riety of garden vegetables. It is believed that the onion might be made one of our best money crops, if it were possible to di-vert the attention of our farmers, for a sin-gle crop, from the all-cotton theory to that of diversified agriculture. The usual market price for this vegetable is never less than one dollar per bushel, and the yield never below one hundred bushels to the acre. Upon our variegated soil and with our uni-form climate, the farmer in Anderson Counform climate, the farmer in Anderson County can produce an abundance of splendid syrup from the production of sorghum cane. One hundred gallons to the acre is the average yield, and sometimes it reaches two hundred gallons or more. Indeed, we have a soil and climate suited, it seems, to the production of cotton, all the different kinds of grains and grasses, fruits and vegetables in great abundance of every variety.

Anderson County has been not inaptly called the banner county of the State. In some respects, at least, she is justly entitled to the appellation. She was one of the first counties to throw off the antiquated and burdensome practice of fencing the crops burdensome practice of fencing the crops instead of stock. This great burden rested as an incubus on agriculture, requiring usually a winter's outlay of labor to repai and build fences. According to statistics at Washington, it is estimated that it requires an average of three dollars of fencing to every dollar's worth of stock, under the old and barbarous system of fencing crops. Since the adoption of the change by Anderidly, and the probability is now that the change will become a State law. Anderson County is justly entitled to the appellation of the banner county in another important respect. She was perhaps the very first County in the State to recognize the neces-sity of a drainage law for health and the development of agriculture. Gradually but surely her people are becoming educated to the importance of such a law, and the time is not for distant when its beneficent results will be seen and felt along the borders of all our rivers, creeks and branches. Form-erly, it was not an uncommon occurrence for logs and trees to be felled in our creeks, as an easy way of getting rid of any further trouble, to lie and rot and putrify until some kindly freshet should remove the nuisance to the farm of some innocent man below. Under the present law, it is a misdemeanor for any man to do such an act, and not only so, but every landowner is required to keep the streams through his farm free from all obstructions of rafts, trash, debris, &c.

Let her banner wave, say we, until An derson shall become such as her natural advantages entitle her to become—the garden spot of the Piedmont region of the

In conclusion, fellow-citizens and farmers of Anderson County, let us exhort you, in the language of Holy Writ, "not to forget the assembling of yourselves together, as the manner of some is." Once or twice each year might the farmers of Anderson County assemble in mass meeting at their beautiful county town to consult together and devise ways and means to advance and develop the great business of agriculture. Lectures or essays should be delivered at these meetings touching all points connected with agriculture and its advancement. The relations of agriculture to the government of the control the disease. ment of the country, the discussion o science and agriculture, the question of the establishment of agricultural colleges and experimental stations, all these and much more would naturally come within the purview of such meetings. Said meetings would not be designed to interfere with or supercede the more permanent organization of the Patrons of Husbandry and Farmers Clubs, but rather to enlist the popular heart on the great and paramount question of agriculture, and thus prepare the way for the enlisting of many recruits to the ranks of these older organizations. Thus, if the farmers of Anderson County please, will the little cloud, not bigger than a man's hand, become a great and mighty cloud, big with blessings for our whole people.

Something Wrong. MR. EDITOR: The Bowling Green club of subscribers have failed to get two or three packages of papers within the past six or eight months. There is evidently a neglect of duty somewhere, and we are very anxious to know where it is. No less than three members of the club called for the package at Williamston on last Friday, and were told the package had been taken out. The next day a member of the club called and was told that the package didn't arrive at that office until Friday night, and had been taken out; and we, the members of this club, are still minus our last week's issue. Now, Mr. Editor, if you can find out where these lost packages of papers go to you will very much oblige and gratify BOWLING GREEN.
